

BOLDEST

AND MOST SUCCESSFUL POST OFFICE ROBBERY

COMMITTED IN MANY YEARS AT CHICAGO.

OVER $76,000 WORTH OF STAMPS

Stolen During the Night—The Robbery Resembled the Recent Smelter Robbery.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—One of the boldest and most successful postoffice robberies in the history of the United States was committed last night, when one of the three great vaults in the temporary postoffice was entered and $76,620 in stamps stolen.

Several postoffice employees are under surveillance and a number of arrests are expected during the day. The robbery resembles in many respects the recent Selby Smelter robbery in California.

The east end of the postoffice rests on piles, the space from the floor to the ground being boarded up. Through the one small door on the dark lake front side entrance was effected by the robbers and 200 feet walk found them at the side of the vaults. With little danger of being observed, and a place where the noise of the drilling could not be heard, they worked, it is believed, at least three days on the steel and brick work at the base of the vault. Ninety-two holes were drilled into one of the plates after the bricks had been removed. An aperture about three by two feet was made, through which the robbers climbed and helped themselves to the valuable contents of the immense steel case. Pounds upon pounds of stamps were taken out and loaded into a wagon.

That the men were not discovered in their work and escape is a marvel considering the fact that scores of men were working on the floor above and that numerous policemen patrolled the inside and outside of the building. There was a watchman 20 feet away from the door from which the robbers must have made their exit.

The robbery was not discovered until some time after 8 o'clock this morning when the cashier opened the vault. He found a box on the floor and upon removing it discovered the hole. Up on this box are numerous finger marks which the detectives believe will aid them in running down the criminals.

Postoffice officials believe the cash vault was the objective and that in the darkness the robbers mistook the stamp vault for the great treasure box. Had they been successful in entering the cash vault they would have secured between $200,000 and $300,000.

Postmaster Coyne is responsible under bond for the amount of the robbery but it is probable that Congress will reimburse him. It is the largest stamp robbery on record.

HERE'S ANOTHER.

Postoffice at Duquesne, Pa., Blown Open Monday Morning—Robbers Were Hurt.

McKeesport, Pa., Oct. 21.—The post office at Duquesne, across the river from this city, was broken into by robbers between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning. The safe was blown open and over $1600 in cash and about $800 worth of stamps were stolen. The safe and part of the building were wrecked. Blood was found about the place which indicates that the robbers were injured. Stamps were found about the grounds of the Carnegie Steel Company. Wm. Canfield who lives above the post office, was thrown out of bed by the explosion of the safe. He gave the alarm. Four men were seen running from the building.

DAVIS' REMAINS

Being Taken to Washington for Interment—The Senator's Widow Is Nettled.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Cushman K. Davis, widow of Senator Davis, of Minnesota, arrived here from St. Paul this morning with her husband's remains en route to Washington, where the body of the distinguished statesman will find its last resting place.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 21.—The entire state was surprised this morning when it became known that Mrs. C. K. Davis, widow of the late Senator Davis, whose death occurred nine months ago, departed for Washington last evening in charge of the casket containing the remains of her late husband.

The fact that the legislature had failed to provide a monument fund at the last session or that no action to provide for the private burial spot had been taken by the citizens of the state it is thought to have nettled Mrs. Davis and by way of retaliation she decided that the remains should not find a final resting place in Minnesota.

FOUND DEAD

Having Been Shot by a Man Said to be George Hall in Covington, Kentucky.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 21.—Casper Caggie aged 26, a paper hanger of Covington, was found dead in an alley at six o'clock today, having been shot by George Hall, a kindling wood peddler, who lives in an alley near the scene of the tragedy. Caggie had been out with Hall's wife. Hall, who is 60, and a war veteran, heard of it, and, waiting for the couple shot Caggie as he was about to leave Mrs. Hall. The shooter escaped.

CHASED

CAPTORS OF MISS STONE INTO MOUNTAINS.

MISSIONARY SPIRITED AWAY TO A PEASANT'S HUT.

BRIGANDS CHANGED THE PLACE

For Payment of the Ransom—Hill on the Bulgarian Frontier Found Inaccessible.

Constantinople, Oct. 21.—The hill on the Bulgarian frontier where Miss Ellen M. Stone was supposed to be imprisoned by Bulgarian brigands, has been found to be inaccessible. The brigands were seen on another mountain nearby and two hundred Bulgarian troops chased them, but without avail. It was learned later that this appearance of the brigands was but a ruse to divert the attention of their pursuers, while Miss Stone was taken elsewhere.

The American missionary is now reported to be in a peasant's hut in the environs of Elechnitza. She has been traced through the Turkish district of Ruz Lik, then to the frontier village of Gracherski, where her abductors remained for a few days.

The brigands have changed the place for the payment of the ransom. They have now notified consular General Dickinson that the money must be paid at Starchichta, a Bulgarian village in Eastern Macedonia.

OLD YALE

Celebrating Her 200th Anniversary—Procession With 7,000 Graduates in Line—The Program.

New Haven, Oct. 21.—Yale's two hundredth anniversary is being splendidly celebrated today with speech and song, and in the presence of some of her most distinguished sons. The most spectacular performance of the celebration will be a torch light procession tonight with 7,000 Yale graduates in line. The under graduates will appear as rough riders, Indians, colonial soldiers, American sailors and the Japanese of the school in caps and gowns the color of cherry blossoms, will carry their national flag.

CRIM

WAS SHOT THROUGH BODY BY PICKPOCKET.

PROMINENT DETECTIVE BADLY HURT IN CINCINNATI.

THIEF IN JAIL—CRIM IS DYING.

Injured Man Made National Reputation by Work on Celebrated Pearl Bryan Murder Case.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 21.—Shortly after 7:30 o'clock this morning Sergeant Detectives Cal. Crum, staggered into Detective's drug store at Sixth and Vine, half fell on a settee, and said putting his hand to his side: "Call a cab. Send for a doctor." He had been shot in the right side by Danny Foley, alias "The Goat," the notorious pickpocket of international fame. It is thought that Crim's wound is mortal.

Crim was walking west on Sixth street en route to Central Police station. Just east of Vine street he met Foley. Catching the pickpocket by the right arm, he swung him around to his left arm again and said "Dan, will you walk or ride? I am going to headquarters."

With an oath Foley jerked a revolver evidently from his right coat pocket, and fired two shots, pressing the revolver the second time into Crim's right side below the nipple. The first shot missed but the second ranging down penetrated vital parts, and inflicted probably a fatal wound. Crim, paralyzed with pain could not pull his own revolver but pointed to Foley, and cried to call out. Foley turned and ran westward, while Ed. Bohan, porter at the Palace Hotel, grasped Crim as he was falling into the street and helped him to Weatherheads. Foley was captured a few minutes later by officers Howard and Haley. Foley turned on them and pointed his still smoking revolver at first one officer and then at the other backed his way west on Sixth street. Two shots were fired at him, before the officers could grapple with him. He refused to talk at Central Police station, but his air of bravado had left him and he was locked up, charged with shooting to kill.

It was in the Pearl Bryan case that Crim, with his partner, John McDermott gained national fame.

At the hospital it was found that the bullet had entered the right breast, and glowing a hole one and one-half inches wide had taken a downward course, penetrating the lower lobe of the lung and liver. The physicians say the wound is undoubtedly fatal. Foley was arrested less than a year ago for picking pockets at a funeral.

PHINEAS FOUTZ

Zanesville Soldier Under Sentence of Death for Killing His Sweetheart Was Alive Sept. 1.

Columbus, O., Oct. 21.—Guard Wm. Deitrick is in receipt of a letter from Phineas Foutz the Zanesville soldier in the 19th U. S. Infantry in the Philippine Islands who is under sentence of death, stating that he has had no information as to his sentence. The letter was dated at Cebu island, Sept. 1. Foutz's sisters who reside in Zanesville, also received letters containing substantially the same information. Foutz served during the Spanish-American war in the Tenth O. V. I. under Colonel Axline, and was regarded as a good soldier. Colonel Axline and Senator Foraker interested themselves in the case and for a time had hopes of saving his life.

Foutz was convicted for the murder of a native girl named Genevieve Torres in a fit of jealousy with a sword cane. It is claimed that she at first encouraged his advances but her parents objected to Foutz on the ground that he was an American, and the natives of Cebu island did not take kindly to the present conditions.

Washington, Oct. 21.—One hundred and one natives of the Philippines were hanged after conviction of murder during the year ending June 21, 1901.

SEETHING

Flames Guttled the Plant While an Explosion Shocked the City and Killed One Man.

Marietta, O., Oct. 21.—The city was shaken Sunday by a gas explosion in the mammoth foundry and machine shop of the Patten Brothers. Douglass Patten, general manager of the concern, was trying to locate a gas leak with a lighted match, when the explosion occurred, blowing every window and door out of the large three-story brick building; also cracking its walls and breaking the windows of other buildings for several squares away. Instantly the Patten building was a mass of seething flames and it was gutted in quick order. Later the body of Patten was recovered. He was not recognizable. The loss is estimated at $75,000, partially covered by insurance.

BIGGEST

Political Event in Ohio Will be the Democratic Opening at Bucyrus on Wednesday.

Bucyrus, O., Oct. 21.—Arrangements have been about completed for the State Democratic campaign opening to be held here next Wednesday, and there is promise of the day being one of the biggest political events the State of Ohio has ever known. Excellent railroad facilities make Bucyrus easy of access. Notification has been received of large delegations that will be in attendance from all parts of the state, including the remotest cities. A small army of laborers has been transforming the public square into a tented amphitheater, and on Monday will begin the decorating of the principal streets. Among the noted personalities who have notified the committee that they will be present are James Kilbourne, Anthony Howells, Tom L. Johnson, Charles Baker, John R. McLean, A. W. Patrick, John L. Zimmerman, J. A. Norton and others.

PERJURY

IS CHARGED AGAINST A BRIDE IN ZANESVILLE.

Thirty Minutes After She is Married, Honeymoon Being Spent in Dodging Officers.

Zanesville, O., Oct. 21.—Married on Saturday, warrants issued for the bride's arrest 30 minutes after the ceremony and a fugitive from justice is the story furnished by the marriage of Miss Alice Rush and Benjamin Jewell, of Ellis Station, in this city. Instead of spending a honeymoon, basking in each other's love, the bride will soon languish behind prison bars. The story is as follows:

Saturday afternoon Benjamin Jewell and Alice Rush presented themselves at the desk of the Probate Judge and requested a marriage license. Mr. Jewell gave his age as 20 years and his bride-elect's age as 18 years. Being under age himself he was fortified with a document signed by his parents giving their consent to the issuing of the license.

Just as the Judge was making out the license a number of the relatives of Miss Rush appeared in the office of the Judge and objected to the issuing of the license, stating that Miss Rush was not 18 years of age. She insisted that she was, and, after being duly warned, took an oath that she was that age. The license was accordingly issued, and the couple were married in the courtroom by Squire Geo. W. Griffice.

While the ceremony was being performed Edward Young, an uncle of the bride, secured a warrant in Squire Williams' court charging the bride with perjury. The warrant was placed in the hands of a Constable, but he has been unable to locate the principals to the wedding. The matter has been brought to the attention of the grand jury, which is now in session.

Two years ago the bride was the prosecuting witness in an assault case against Mortimer Bash. He was convicted on her testimony, as she swore during the trial that her age was 14 years. Bash served his sentence for the offense. All efforts to locate the newly married couple have been futile.

SHOT

AND INSTANTLY KILLED THE YOUNG GIRL

WHO DID NOT RETURN HIS AFFECTION.

THEN STANG KILLED HIMSELF.

Young Man Was Quartermaster on the Transport Meade—Girl He Killed was Mabel Mayer.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 21.—This morning John Stano, 26 years old shot and killed Mabel Mayer aged 17 while she was asleep and then killed himself. Stano lived as a lodger in the house of Mrs. Mayer, and became infatuated with Mabel, but she did not reciprocate his feelings. He went to the room of the girl who was asleep and fired three bullets into her body. Mrs. Mayer, hearing the shots went to her daughter's room, but found the door bolted. She ran to another entrance and opening the door found Stano by the side of the girl's bed. She accused him of shooting Mabel. Without answering her the man placed the weapon over his heart and fired, dropping dead. Stano had been quartermaster of the transport Meade.

LARGER ARMY IN PHILIPPINES.

PRESIDENT DECIDES TO SEND REINFORCEMENTS AT ONCE.

Recent Outbreaks in Samar Have Aroused Grave Apprehension as to Actual Situation There.

Washington, Oct. 21.—It became apparent today that President Roosevelt views with grave apprehension the military situation in the Philippines as indicated by the recent disasters to the Ninth infantry in Samar. He has determined to increase the American forces now in the islands, and to this end reinforcements will be dispatched to Manila not later than December 1. To facilitate their transportation it has been decided to utilize the transport Crook, now at New York, and orders have been issued to put her in readiness for a voyage to the Philippines, leaving New York about December 1.

Orders have also been issued to recruiting officers in the East to prepare to go to Manila. With the recruits on hand it is expected that several hundred can be assembled in New York within a few weeks. It has also been determined to order a regular battalion of infantry to New York to go on the Crook. Which organization the battalion will be taken from has not yet been decided.

It was learned today that in addition to these troops that in other infantry or cavalry will be assembled at San Francisco for that purpose. Two other vessels loaded with supplies will leave the Pacific coast within the next month or two, one from Portland and the other from Seattle.

ARMY OFFICERS

Undermining Health by Dancing Till Morning—Greely Ready to Advise the President.

London, Oct. 21.—General A. W. Greely of the weather bureau, returning from Manila and here today, said United States army officers are undermining their health by the demands of society, dancing nightly till 3 o'clock. He says if Roosevelt will ask him, he will give very candid advice about the campaign in the Philippines.

Of the 1,557 towns in New England 101 manage their schools under the district system, 81 of them being in Connecticut.

When the Postoffice (London) telephones are in complete working order they will embrace an era of 640 miles.

SCHLEY INQUIRY

This Week May See the End of Court at Washington—Dozen Witnesses to Examine.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Admiral Dewey called the Schley court of inquiry to order at 11 o'clock this morning. Captain E. A. Cook of the Brooklyn, took the stand to correct a statement he had made in his testimony regarding the Oregon.

"I testified," he said, "that when the battle opened the Oregon had fired under all her boilers, because the boilers in use that morning had been shifted from forward to aft. I made this statement from hearsay and assumed that it was correct, and accounted for her extraordinary speed in the pursuit of the Colon. I find that I was in error and that the Oregon did not shift her boilers. The fact is that the Oregon had steam up in all her boilers."

It is generally expected that this will be the closing week of the Schley court of inquiry. Attorney Rayner has about a dozen witnesses yet to examine, the last of whom will be Rear Admiral Schley himself. Following the Admiral's testimony, Captain Lemly, the Judge Advocate, will doubtless call a few witnesses in rebuttal after which the case will be submitted to the Court.

The Court has been listening all day to descriptions of the Santiago battle.

THE HINKLE CASE.

Columbus, O., Oct. 21.—Judge Evans today began hearing of the suit to enjoin the Council from impeaching Mayor Hinkle. Grounds for the application are that a move to impeach is a conspiracy and that the council has no power to impeach.

EIGHTY

HIGH OFFICIALS ORDERED BEHEADED

OR BANISHED BY AN IMPERIAL CHINESE EDICT.

MOST ILLUSTRIOUS CULPRITS.

It Is Said, However, Seem to Have Been Kept Off List.—Sensation in China.

Tacoma, Washington, October 21.—Oriental advices state that governors, judges and high military officers are included among eighty high officials who are ordered beheaded or banished by an imperial Chinese edict for participating in the Boxer massacres of last year. This edict deals exclusively with mandarins of all classes connected with the Boxers. It recites that 56 mandarins have already suffered the extreme penalty of the law for their misdeeds.

The emperor's brother has presented a fresh list of mandarins deserving punishment. The edict directs that every person named on the list shall be punished, many being sentenced to death and others to life-long banishment beyond the frontiers of China. The list is a startling one from a Chinese standpoint, but Shanghai papers say it fails, as usual, to include the most illustrious culprits.

In consequence of earnest efforts of Sir Ernest Satow, British minister at Peking, not less than 35 are ordered punished for complicity in the Chuchow massacre of last year. Governor Liushatang of Peking, has been degraded and banished to his native place. Yung Chauan, provincial judge and treasurer, a degraded and banished to Szachman; Pao Tsulin of Shuchow is degraded and sent to perpetual banishment in Kashgasharax; Yu, brigadier general of Chuchow, was sentenced to perpetual banishment, but evaded sentence by dying.

Scores of pirates and robbers are being captured at Canton through informers and executed. The Mormon apostle, Heber J. Grant, of Salt Lake, and his associates have been granted official permission to preach in Japan, provided they omit the doctrine of polygamy.

BABIES

CARRIED TO CHURCH IN FOUR CARRIAGES

MRS. ORMSBY'S QUADRUPLETS WERE CHRISTENED.

TRIPLER GATHERING ECLIPSED.

Thousands Crowded the Seats and Aisles to Get a Look at the Tiny Babes in Chicago.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 21.—The quadruplets born a fortnight ago to Mrs. Ormsby, a poor woman, whose husband had lately deserted her, were christened Sunday at St. Cecilia's church, Roman Catholic.

Publication of the blessing bestowed upon Mrs. Ormsby in her helpless condition brought a shower of contributions in cash and clothes to her modest home, and today she is in affluence.

The children were brought to the church in four carriages drawn by milk white horses, and their clothes were as fine as laces and linen could make them.

William, Theodore, Isaac, John James and Edith Viola are their names and they are expected to live long and prosper.

The christening was an event for all St. Cecilia's Parish. Two years ago when the Ormsby triplets were christened at the church there was a mighty gathering of the curious, but Sunday's celebration far surpassed the other one.

There were almost enough adults present to fill the seats of the church, and in addition to them apparently all the children of all the 1,000 families in the parish had come, too. They pushed like a torrent down the aisles of the church. They all wanted to see the quadruplets at once. They forgot the sanctity of the altar and the solemnity of the occasion. An assistant priest of the church tried to drive them back. They paid no more attention to him than to the altar boys.

Mrs. Ormsby, resplendent in her ninety-one-dollar costume, which she had purchased for the occasion, took her place with her four little babies, standing in front of her.

Along with the quadruplets five other babies were to be baptized at the same time, and the row of them filled the whole space along the altar rail.

Father Kelly took his book and Holy water and began to read the Latin phrases of the baptismal service. He kissed the infants and crossed them time after time as he went up and down the line receiving section after section of the service.

With curiosity somewhat allayed, the crowd gradually thinned, and before the service was over—it lasted three-quarters of an hour—the church was comparatively empty.

Father Kelly said: "If I had known what was coming I would have had the baptism held on a week day. My people never crowded and crowded in the church this way before. They acted as if it were a show and I wouldn't have anything like that again."

After Mrs. Ormsby was back in her home many visitors were received at the regulation rate of 25 cents an evening, and there was a jollification all evening long.

SAILED FOR ENGLAND.

Halifax, Oct. 21.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York sailed for England this morning at 9:30. The royal party was given an ovation by the crowd that had gathered to witness the departure of the yacht Ophir. A stop will be made at St. John's if the weather be thick.

KILBOURNE'S ELECTION.

It is very plain that the Republican campaign opening at Delaware was largely a forerunner demonstration in sentiment. With all the power of the State Republican machinery Governor Nash finds it a difficult matter to overcome the extraordinary popularity of Colonel Kilbourne. There never was a candidate for Governor in all Ohio's history that commands so many elements of strength on account of his personality as Colonel Kilbourne does. His election is becoming more evident to the minds of careful observers every day.

Reciprocity With Cuba.

(Washington Star.)
With Cuba's assumption of independent power the chapter of sentiment will end and that of business will open. We want to do business with her, but strictly on business principles. And probably she will fully understand this and shape her course accordingly. We have a market for her sugar and for her tobacco, and she needs a great many things that we produce in abundance. There is every reason, therefore, why when the whole ground shall have been carefully examined a safe foundation should be laid for a reciprocal trade arrangement between the two countries.

For the Good of the Service.

(Philadelphia Times.)
The substitution of a capable secretary of war has redeemed the army from the demoralization that threatened it under Alger; the salvation of the navy requires a similar change, and it ought to be made at once. The retention of Secretary Long is one part of the policy of President McKinley that his successor should change without delay.

Schley's Plan Was Best.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S ENTERTAINMENT OF THE NEGRO SCHOLAR.

To the average Northern mind the feeling that has been stirred up in the South over the action of President Roosevelt in entertaining Booker Washington, the negro scholar, at the White House, is by no means justifiable. Mr. Washington has been credited with making a commendable effort for the betterment of his race in the South, by training them in industrial lines, instead of the turmoil of politics in which they have been made the instruments of selfish leaders, and brought only trouble upon themselves.

But Mr. Roosevelt is said to be the first President who has entertained a colored man at the White House. Several colored men have been in Congress and held high office, but were not invited to dine with the President. So Mr. Roosevelt's dinner may be accepted as a new departure. The storm that is sweeping over the South on the subject is based on the supposed attitude that will be taken because of it by the negroes toward white men, their wives and families. This seems absurd to Northern people, but the race conditions in the two sections are vastly different, and we of the North are not in a fair way to judge.

We do not invite negroes to sit down at table with our families, they get cold shoulder and refusal at hotels, and even the women's club reject fellowship with the dark race in their amiable efforts at social progress. But still our race prejudices will not go to the extent of censuring the President for inviting a black man to dine with him. It was a point for him to determine. He did so when Governor of New York, when his colored guest was refused at the hotels of Albany.

The dining of Mr. Washington in this case was a private affair and not in any sense a public function.

Tramps Start a Fire.

Lacrosse, Wis., Oct. 21.—Fire was discovered in the hay lands which surround this city. The flames are now burning everything before them and the firemen are powerless owing to the fire being outside the city limits and beyond water service. It is believed the fire was started by tramps. Upon these lands are stacked thousands of tons of hay, all directly in the path of the flames. Although the loss cannot be estimated, it is thought it will be enormous.

Hall Caine's Candidacy.

London, Oct. 21.—Hall Caine has consented to become a candidate for the Manx parliament in behalf of the town of Ramsey. His opponent is a local lawyer. Mr. Caine's address has created consternation even among his own supporters, for he advocates sweeping changes that might well be planks in a national platform of some great reform party.

FOR THE CHILDREN

A Horse Tells His Story.

I am a fine black horse, and when I was young I could trot so fast that I was named Igo.

I was born in Maine and had a very kind master. My mother was a great favorite of master, and he often came to our pasture with something to eat and patted us.

When it was time for me to be broken, master taught me a little every day and was very kind. He had a brother living in New York who wished to buy me. So when I was three years old I started on my journey.

I was put on a train going to Portland and was so frightened at the strange noises that master stayed with me nearly all the time. At Portland I was put on a boat, and master's stateroom was near me, so when I was frightened I would hear his voice, which made me feel much better.

When I arrived in New York, I was more scared than ever at the elevated railroads, but I went to Brooklyn and out to a suburb, which was to be my new home.

I was put in a box stall in a pretty red stable, and my new master and mistress were very kind to me. I was a fast trotter and went for many pleasant drives in the park.

For six happy years I lived in this place, and then the family went to Europe, and I was sent to a country town out on Long Island to be taken care of. I have lived there ever since, and master and mistress always spend some of the summer months there. I am seventeen years old now and am driven mostly in light wagons. In the winter I have my shoes taken off and am put out in the pastures in mild weather. I have heard master say that I shall never be sold, so I have nothing to fear and am very happy.—Ada Case in Brooklyn Eagle.

A Unique Plant.

Those who indulge in the luscious peanut, or groundnut, will be interested to learn what was said of this commodity at the New York botanical garden recently. As the name peanut indicates, it is a member of the pea family and is not a nut at all, but just as much a "pea in the pod" as any pea or bean. The curious fact about groundnuts is their burrowing habit.

The plant looks very much like clover, but has a small bloom, from which descends a long filament carrying the embryo peanut. No sooner does this touch the sandy ground in which the plant grows than it develops into the nut as we know it.

With the sharp, hard point of the shell the nut works its way down into the sandy soil and continues attached to the parent plant by the little filament, through which it nourishes its parent in dutiful fashion. The reasoning instinct of the plants is interesting, for should it happen that an obstruction is placed in the way of the infant peanut or if the sand should be dug away at the place it had planned to enter the earth it will give up the effort and die.

Intelligence of Animals.

Paul B. Du Chailu, the explorer, says there is no doubt that animals talk in certain ways among themselves. In Africa he has heard gorillas laugh and guffaw when they came to rob a man's field and found that elephants had already destroyed everything as if they appreciated the joke on themselves. Again he heard a gorilla which had found some choice berries call another that was a long way off. He saw monkeys apparently deliberate for a long time before making some move. These animals, by the way, rarely drink water, but eat juicy berries and fruits instead. Du Chailu was impressed by the fact that even in a tropical forest animals have to work hard for a living. Some of them travel miles every day to get food and have all kinds of trouble in finding a safe place to spend the night. Even elephants are very careful about their sleeping places. They hate snakes, and before lying down they carefully trample over a large area to kill or drive out reptiles and rodents, and big as they are they go in herds for greater safety.

The Changeable Gown.

A German professor who lived at the court of the Duke of Brunswick was fond of astounding his patron with chemical tricks. One day he appeared at dinner in a long white gown and sat chatting as though that were his usual dress. Presently it was noticed that his old costume was taking on color. First it turned to faint rose, then to a deeper shade, then to pink, until finally, when dinner was over, the professor walked out in a robe of dark red. He did not like to betray his chemical secrets, but another chemist at the court went into a long series of experiments on his own account and at length found out how the trick could be done. When linewater is poured on the juice of the common beet, it bleaches it, and when white cloth is washed in the compound it leaves no more trace than water. But in a few hours after the cloth has dried it will become as red as the beet itself.

Rotation of Potato Crops.

Once for all the continuous growing of potatoes without crop rotation is not to be recommended, as a rule, but there may be exceptions, says Alva Agee in National Stockman. It may do in swamp lands and in new soil for a few years, but on old lands where soil fertility is the big question a good short rotation is decidedly the best for both soil and crops.

Pumpkins For Hogs.

Pumpkins for hogs can be kept quite late in the fall by placing on shelves in a barn where they will be dried. Of course they should be fed out before very cold weather arrives.

BOWSER, PALMIST.

HE TAKES UP THE NEW FAD FOR AN EVENING'S ENTERTAINMENT.

But In Trying to Convert Mrs. Bowser and a Stranger to His Belief He Gets Poor Results and Has a Lively Time.

(Copyright, 1901, by C. B. Lewis.)

For half an hour after dinner the other evening Mr. Bowser was uneasy and waiting for Mrs. Bowser to ask him what was the cause. As she didn't do so, he finally said:

"I suppose you have heard and read more or less about palmistry?"

"Yes," she answered.

"And do you believe in it?"

"I thought you'd bring home a new fad soon. So you have turned to palmistry?"

"There you go, woman. If I was to bring home a gospel hymnbook found in the road, you'd call it a fad. It's mighty singular that I can't make a move without your twitting and taunting me of being a half idiot."

"Well, what is it about palmistry?" she asked.

"I had my palm read about a week ago, and the palmist told things so straight that I got him to give me a few lessons. As far as I know, you never had your palm read."

"And I don't think I will. It's too much like fortune telling."

"But just let me take your hand and look at what they call the life line. I want to see whether you are to live to a good old age or not."

Mrs. Bowser complied, and after a moment's study he scratched his head and muttered:

"Well, that's a mighty singular thing, and I can't account for it. You are going to live to be at least ninety years old."

"Yes, I hope to."

"And according to my life line so am I."

"All the better."

"But according to that crisscross line there you are to be a widow before you are forty."

"Well?"

"And according to my crisscross line I'm to be a widower before I'm fifty."

"Then it seems that there's something out of gear with the crisscross. You'd better look at the lines on the soles of your feet and see if they won't help you out. If they don't, you might go to an astrologer during the full of the moon and carrying a black cat at your pocket and a horseshoe over your heart."

"Woman, remember whom you are talking to!" shouted Mr. Bowser as he flushed up and flung her hand away.

"But you got such silly notions into your head. Let us drop palmistry this evening and have a game of cards or run into Green's. I didn't mean to hurt your feelings. Here—look at my hand again if you wish."

"But I do not wish," he stiffly replied. "There are some folks so blamed mean that their palms tell nothing more than a gridiron would. I took up palmistry for a diversion, and I propose to carry it along in spite of your would be sarcasm. If you want to go into Green's, take the cat along with you. I'll go down and read the cook's future for her."

Mrs. Bowser leaned back with a sigh, and the cat followed Mr. Bowser down stairs with a well founded belief that something of interest would occur. The cook looked up with surprise as her dominions were invaded, and that surprise increased as she learned the object of the visit. She felt it her duty, however, to hold out her hand as requested, and after a look at it Mr. Bowser sagely said:

"This line here indicates a short life and a violent death. This other line indicates a lack of ambition. This line tells me that you will never marry. This other line indicates that you—"

"That's enough, sir," she said as she pulled her hand away. "Do you see that line there? Well, that indicates that if you are to come fooling around this kitchen with your nonsense I'll pack me trunk and be off in the morning. Why don't you go out and read the hen tracks in the alley and find that you are to grow whiskers clear down to your toes?"

"But, my dear woman, this is palmistry," he mildly protested. "Nature has engraved certain lines on your palm as an index."

"I am no index, sir, and if you are not satisfied with my cooking I'll go. All the lines on me palms come from rubbing the washboard and handling the flatiron, and that's all there is to it. Am I to go?"

Mr. Bowser went instead. He was piqued and chagrined at his failure, and the sight of a half suppressed smile on Mrs. Bowser's face set his ears to working.

"I might have known she had a head of patty!" he exclaimed as he squared off for a row.

Mrs. Bowser discreetly held her tongue, and the cat took a walk under the piano and toned down her purr. For five minutes Mr. Bowser paraded up and down and then marched down the hall, clapped his hat on his head and passed out on the steps. He was just in time to meet a person ascending, and the person saluted him with:

"Could you help a man with a dyin' wife and six starvin' children?"

"Have you ever heard about palmistry?" queried Mr. Bowser in reply after a minute.

"I have, sir. It's the lines in your hands."

"Yes. Do you believe in it?"

"I do."

"Ah, you do! Then I am glad to meet you. Have you had your hand read?"

"I have, sir, and not half an hour ago. That's why I came here. I was told that you'd give me a quarter."

"But that isn't palmistry."

"The straightest kind, sir. It's right there in one of the lines that you'd give me a quarter and perhaps an old suit of clothes."

"Then they lied to you. I'm not giving quarters to tramps. I've seen you hanging around this street for a year or more."

"Then I'll get nothing from you?"

"No, sir."

"Then I'll tell you of another line in my hand. The feller who read it said I'd bump up against the meanest old skindint in town before my good luck came, and I've bumped."

"What! What! You clear out of this!" shouted Mr. Bowser as he grabbed the man by the collar and shook him.

"Yes, sir, and the next line indicates that I'm a peaceful man till I'm aroused, but that when anybody takes me by the collar and tries to shake the teeth out of my mouth."

"You won't go, eh?" shouted Mr. Bowser as they mixed it up.

"Let go my hair!"

"Don't try to grab my throat!"

"And don't shake me!"

"What you want is a good thumping!"

"But no baldhead can give it to me! Hit me in the stomach, will you? Then take that!"

Five minutes later Mrs. Bowser and the cat went to the door to look out.

Mr. Bowser sat there bareheaded, with a handkerchief to his left eye, and at the bottom of the steps an old goat that had wandered into the yard was eating up his hat.

"I thought I heard grunts and groans and a struggle out here," she said.

No reply.

"Have you got discouraged about palmistry?"

He gurgled in his throat, but no words came.

"It was funny we didn't see a crisscross line indicating a tramp," continued Mrs. Bowser. "Do you think we missed it?"

Mr. Bowser softly dabbed the handkerchief against his aching optic and heaved a sigh, and the crickets sang, the big white moon looked down in gentleness, and Mrs. Bowser slid into the house and bunted up the arnica and a bundle of soft rags.

Preparing Poultry For Market. Those who are preparing poultry for market should be particular about the quality of the food they have, says American Cultivator. All poultry, but especially young poultry, either chickens, ducks or turkeys, will very quickly show in the flavor of the flesh any food that has a strong odor. They do so more quickly than do fowls because the latter pass off much of the flavor in their eggs. Therefore such food as onions, turnips, cabbage, fish and decaying meat should be carefully kept away from them for at least two weeks before they are killed. They may relish a little of such food, and it may not harm them when growing, but the flavor of it can be detected perhaps in twenty-four hours after it is fed.

American Health Methods—Enormous Demand For Paine's Celery Compound.

Whatever else has been accomplished in Cuba, the health of the island has been wonderfully improved.

In Havana the change has been magical; streets have been asphalted, sewers built, buildings whitewashed and drug stores supplied with scientific up-to-date preparations. The demand for Paine's celery compound has grown to enormous proportions.

Molina is but one of many prominent Cubans who have publicly advised the use of Paine's celery compound, basing their recommendations on the benefit they themselves have derived from its use.

Not only among business men, lawyers, clergymen and physicians, but among all classes of thoughtful, intelligent people, Paine's celery compound is the one reliable remedy for

The following statement from E. J. Molina of the Havana Custom House shows the standing Paine's has already secured among the most progressive, energetic people of Havana: Havana, Cuba, Feb. 4, 1901.

Wells & Richardson Co.:
Dear Sirs—I take great pleasure in stating that I have used your Paine's celery compound, both while in the United States as well as in this city, and find it to be of wonderfully restorative power, especially in this enervating climate.

Very truly yours, building up the system when it is run down. It is the greatest nerve and brain invigorator the world has ever known.

If your wife, daughter or sister is pale, languid, headachy and irritable, persuade her to try Paine's celery compound. If your husband, son or brother cannot eat, sleep or work, and drowsy, dyspeptic and despondent induce him to take Paine's celery compound.

It restores a worn and weak nervous system to healthy vigor. There can be no substitute for Paine's celery compound.

"BOOK OF ROYAL BLUE."

The Book of the Royal Blue, published by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company for the month of October, is devoted wholly as a memorial to the late President McKinley. The volume contains a composite editorial, carefully constructed from the editorials of the leading newspapers, a composite sermon from all the noted divines and a composite eulogy from tributes of prominent citizens. Mr. McKinley's last speech at Buffalo and appropriate poems complete the number. The little book is handsomely illustrated and is a very interesting and valuable publication over which the B. & O. railway company is to be complimented.

SIXTH

REGIMENT CARRIED OFF ALL HONORS.

Members of State Team and Alternates—Rifle Practice Over—4th Not In It—Results.

The Ohio National Guardsmen who have been here at the state encampment ground since last Tuesday participating in the annual rifle practice, were paid at 9 o'clock this morning and are leaving the city for their respective homes throughout the state today.

Each member of the new state team carried home a new Krag-Jorgenson rifle and all will be supplied with plenty of ammunition and encouraged to do plenty of practicing between the present time and the period next summer when the team and the alternates come back to Newark to have a practice shoot before going to the international shoot at Seagirt, N. J., next fall. Ohio did not make a very good showing at Seagirt this year but the National Guard officers encouraged by the showing made during this week's practice have arranged to give the state team almost unlimited facilities for perfecting their marksmanship in order that the team may "get something" at the next international shoot. The results of the rifle practice all point from hard work as is evidenced by the records of the Toledo regiment which at the present time as last year stands at the top of the Ohio National Guard in shooting. This year the Sixth regiment, Colonel Stanbury's men, has half the men on the state team, and they come largely from one company—the Bloomdale company—all because the Bloomdale men do a lot of practicing. The Captain of that company has a private rifle range and the boys are given plenty of opportunity to practice with the rifle.

During the past week it was frequently stated that the local company, C, could be to the Fourth regiment what the Bloomdale company is to the Sixth and it is not improbable that Captain Crawford and his men will be in position in another year to win some honors for themselves and incidentally for the Fourth Regiment. With the state range right at hand and with the state department ready to supply all necessary ammunition, there is no reason why the Newark company should not take advantage of the chance to become crack marksmen.

After the state team was announced Sunday the state team did some shooting to decide which man got the Governor's and the Adjutant General's badge. The officers had revolver practice and the regimental teams shot for the Meade trophy.

In the last named competition, the Third regiment came out ahead with a score of 189 while the First regiment was second with a score of 144. This was called skirmish shooting.

Figuring the scores made at 200, 500 and at 600 yards, the following state team was chosen, the names being given out by Major Kirkpatrick, chief statistical officer, of Springfield. These show the best shots in the Ohio National Guard to date:

No. Reg't.	Name	Score
1—Third, Corp.	Winder	127
2—First, Capt.	Hake	120
3—Sixth, Sergt.	Richards	120
4—Sixth, Corp.	Wendling	117
5—Eighth, Capt.	Beer	115
6—Fifth, Sergt.	Bennecke	112
7—Sixth, Lieut.	Smith	112
8—Engineers, Lieut.	Schofield	111
9—Sixth, Capt.	Zurfluh	111
10—Sixth, Sergt.	Daken	111
11—Sixth, Private	Wayne Frye	107
12—First, First Sergt.	South	107

Eighteen alternates were announced as follows:

No. Reg't.	Name	Score
1—Fifth, Private	Bates	103
2—Eighth, Private	Hess	102
3—Eighth, Sergt.	Snea	102
4—First, Sergt.	Romer	102
5—Eighth, Private	Curren	101
6—Fifth, Private	Hayward	100
7—Engineers, Corp	T. T. Ewing	109
8—First, Private	Duffy	98
9—Fifth, Sergt.	Seamon	98
10—Engineers, Private	E. E. Ewing	95
11—Sixth, Lieut.	Gibson	95
12—Sixth, Sergt.	Ganer	97
13—Third, Sergt.	Parker	97
14—Eighth, Capt.	Pickinpaugh	96
15—Seventh, Sergt.	Benedict	95
16—Second, Sergt.	Rouston	95
17—Fifth, Capt.	Van Gorder	95
18—Seventh, Private	E. Willis	94

The contest among members of the state team for the Governor's badge resulted in a victory for Sergeant G. H. Dicken of the Sixth infantry, who made a score of 117 out of a possible 150. Lieut. J. W. Smith, also of the Sixth regiment, was second best in this contest with a score of 116 and he was therefore awarded the Adjutant General's medal. Both these men belong to Co. G, of Bloomdale, Ohio. The scores of the other members of the state team in this contest follow:

Corporal Winder, 3d inf., 115; Capt. Hake, First inf., 113; Sergt. Richards, Sixth inf., 111; Wayne Frye, Sixth inf., 110; Corporal Wendling, Sixth inf., 110; Sergt. South, First inf., 108; Lieut. Schofield, Engineers, 107; Capt. Beer, Eighth inf., 104; Capt. Zurfluh, Sixth inf., 101; Sergt. Bennecke, Fifth inf., 101.

The revolver practice participated in only by the officers resulted in the following highest scores: Capt. Clemens, 41; Capt. Peckinpaugh, 38; Capt. Hake, 39; Capt. Bradbury, 35; Capt. Van Gorder, 34; Lieut. Evans, 30; Major Critchfield, 29; Major Blizard, 28; Capt. Anderson, 27; Lieut. Armstrong, 25; Lieut. Perry, 24; Lieut. Boettcher, 19; Capt. Auxer, 19; Capt. DuPuy, 14; Capt. Campbell, 12.

Sunday Capt. Rudd of the Ninth battalion, was officer of the day, and no officer of the guard was posted. The health of the men has been excellent in spite of the cool nights and the entire body of men are pleased with the results of the encampment. A good record will be made by Ohio at the next international shoot.

FLAVOR IN FOODS.

This Quality Is as Much a Necessity as Is Nutrition.

Chemists tell us that cheese is one of the most nutritious and at the same time one of the cheapest of foods. Its nutritive value is greater than meat, while its cost is much less. But the chemical aspect of the matter does not express the real value of the cheese as a food. Cheese is eaten not because of its nutritive value as expressed by the amount of proteins, fats and carbohydrates that it contains, but always because of its flavor.

Now, physiologists do not find that flavor has any food value. They teach over and over again that our foodstuffs are proteins, fats and carbohydrates and that as food flavor plays absolutely no part. But at the same time they tell us that the body would be unable to live upon these foodstuffs were it not for the flavors. If one were compelled to eat pure food without flavors, like the white of an egg, it is doubtful whether one could for a week at a time consume a sufficiency of food to supply his bodily needs. Flavor is as necessary as food and it enables us to consume it properly. And, secondly, it stimulates the glands to secrete, so that the foods may be satisfactorily digested and assimilated.

The whole art of cooking, the great development of flavoring products, the high prices paid for special foods like lobsters and oysters—these and numerous other factors connected with food supply and production are based solely upon this demand for flavor. Flavor is a necessity, but it is not particularly important what the flavor may be. This is shown by the fact that different peoples have such different tastes in this respect. The garlic of the Italian and the red pepper of the Mexican serve the same purpose as the vanilla which we put in our ice cream, and all play the part of giving a relish to the food and stimulating the digestive organs to proper activity.—Professor H. W. Corn in Popular Science Monthly.

The Humming Bird's Flight.

The flight of the little humming bird is more remarkable than that of the eagle. We can understand the flapping of the eagle's immense wing supporting a comparatively light body. But our little bird has a plump body. Its wings are not wide, but long, so he must move them rapidly to sustain his weight, and this he can do to perfection. The vibrations of his wings are so rapid as to make them almost invisible. He can use them to sustain himself in midair, with his body as motionless as if perched on a twig. In this way he can sip the nectar of the delicate, fine stemmed flowers without alighting for a moment. He never alights while so engaged. He moves from flower to flower with a graceful and rapid movement, sometimes chasing away a bee or humming bird moth, of which he is very jealous. Nor is he much more favorably impressed with any small birds that seem in his way. He knows his power of flight, and he has no fear of any other bird.—Heavy Hales in St. Nicholas.

The belles of Grigoland are coming out strong for the fall and winter season, and high toned functions will be the order of the day. They are using five barrels of kerosene per week for hair oil, and an old calico wrapper makes opera cloaks for six of them.

At a musicale given at the but of Mrs. D. Thomas of the Katongo tribe the other evening the paper collars worn by the gentlemen just matched the socks worn by the ladies, and both matched the three jewsheads which rendered "Home, Sweet Home," in a matchless manner.

BAPTISTS

OF OHIO MEET THIS WEEK AT ZANESVILLE.

NEWARK AND GRANVILLE WILL BE PROMINENT.

ONE THOUSAND TO BE PRESENT.

Seventy-Fifth Anniversary of the Ohio Convention Begins Tuesday. Delegates from Churches.

Zanesville, O., Oct. 21.—The seventy-fifth anniversary of the Ohio Baptist Convention will be held here beginning tomorrow. Churches in every county in the State will send delegates representing an aggregate membership of over 75,000. William Howard Paine of Cincinnati is President, and Rev. G. E. Leonard, D. D., of Granville, is Field Secretary.

The subjects embrace questions of the local parish, conduct of Sunday school and young people's work, educational outlook, woman's work in missions, the planting and sustaining of new churches. The Ministers' Conference will be held tonight. Tuesday begins the seventieth anniversary of the Ohio Baptist Education Society.

Tuesday evening, Rev. T. H. Patterson of Rochester, N. Y., will deliver the educational sermon. On Tuesday and Wednesday, from 4 to 5 o'clock each afternoon, the Women's Societies will meet. Prominent among the officers and speakers at these meetings are Mrs. L. T. Scofield of Cleveland; Mrs. B. F. Part and Mrs. J. B. Jones of Newark; Mrs. S. M. Fulton, Elyria; Mrs. W. Ashmore, Jr., of China; Miss Joanna Moore of New Orleans, La.; Mrs. H. Thane Miller, Mrs. G. M. Peters and Miss H. C. Rycken of Cincinnati.

The educational interests of the Ohio Baptists come within the purview of the convention, and no institution in Ohio of its grade stands higher than Denison University at Granville, with an addition this year of $300,000 to its endowment, making the total investment at Granville nearly $1,100,000, with 30 teachers, over 500 students and 14 buildings.

The Baptist Young People's Union of Ohio will be in evidence at the convention, and echoes of the summer assembly at Hiram Park, Mt. Vernon, Ohio, will be heard. Among prominent figures on the floor will be Rev. W. G. Partridge, D. D., G. M. Peters, Esq., Rev. G. R. Robbins, Rev. W. D. Holt, Rev. C. S. Brown, Rev. G. W. Lasher, D. D., T. J. Peale, Esq., Rev. J. F. Heacock, Rev. H. T. Crane of Cincinnati; E. M. Thresher, Rev. U. S. Davis, J. B. Tarkenton, of Dayton; P. J. Kirkpatrick, Esq., Rev. W. S. Sly, of Springfield, Charles T. Lewis and Rev. G. R. Richards, of Toledo; A. T. Osborne and H. A. Sherwood, of Cleveland, and Rev. C. J. Baldwin, and Prof. J. L. Gilpatrick of Granville.

Among the persons engaged for the convention platform are E. H. Jameson, D. D., of Detroit, Rev. M. Stephenson, of Chicago, Rev. J. S. Boyden, D. D., of Kalamazoo, Mich.; Prof. Shaller Matthews, of the University of Chicago; Rev. K. L. Van Dusen, of Princeton; Rev. G. R. Peters, and George L. Stevens of Cincinnati; Rev. H. T. Cooley, D. D., of Dayton; Rev. C. A. Eaton, D. D., of Cleveland; Rev. Joseph Taylor of Columbus; Prof. W. A. Chas. Levin, of Granville; Rev. M. Briceford of Tihana, Dr. H. C. Parrish of Langhams, Rev. J. C. Massie of Mansfield; Rev. M. W. Tushy and Rev. J. L. Cheever, D. D., of Cleveland; Rev. C. T. Allen, D. D., of Canton; Rev. Jesse Boswell of Toledo; Rev. T. G. Felt of Elyria; Rev. B. F. Part of Newark; Rev. A. G. Coffey of Akron, and Rev. T. G. Loughton, of Cambridge.

The Baptists in the United States a century ago numbered about 160,000. They now count over 4,000,000. In Ohio in 1826 there were 7,000; now 75,000. In value of their educational endowments Baptists are at the head of the column of American Protestant denominations, the total sum being over $40,000,000. In Ohio there are 642 churches and 579 ordained ministers. The largest church in the state is the Ninth Street, Cincinnati, with 1,378 members. The next is Lincoln Park, of Cincinnati, with 821 members. Fifty years ago the largest church in the state was at Zanesville. First, with 543 members. The church that makes the largest contributions to the Dayton First.

The original notion of the Ohio Baptist Association arose in the brain of a citizen of Cincinnati, Ephraim Robins, who was a pioneer in fire insurance in the west. He came to this city about 1820, and in 1824 was the leading spirit in a society, which was the nucleus of the Ohio Baptist Convention two years later.

In 1829 the convention held its first meeting in Cincinnati in the meeting house of the Enon Baptist church, then located on Walnut street, where afterward Baker street was opened. Fully 1,000 delegates and visitors will be in attendance during all or part of the four days.

Denison University Lost Saturday Afternoon's Game to Athens College. Boys—A Game in Newark.

Granville, O., Oct. 21.—At the Denison University athletic field Saturday afternoon, Denison lost a foot ball game that she should have won. The Ohio university team from Athens won by the score of 12 to 0.

During the first half of the game neither side scored and the local team held the visitors down in goal style but soon after the second half started the Athens fellows scored a safety and forthwith the Denison team went to pieces. The game was called after only eleven minutes play of the second half as the Athens boys had to hurry to catch their train for home. The first half was 25 minutes.

During the game Hemlin, right guard for the Athens eleven, had the cartilage torn from one of his ribs on the left side and was not able to accompany the Ohio team home. Dr. Cook attended to his injury, which is not regarded as serious.

HOT FIGHTING AHEAD

Campaign On Samar to Be Prosecuted Vigorously.

REINFORCEMENTS NOW ON THE WAY.

Vigilance of an American Lieutenant Averts Another Slaughter of Uncle Sam's Boys—Determined Effort to Be Made to Capture the Filipino Leader, General Lukban.

Manilla, Oct. 21.—Reinforcements are being rushed to the island of Samar. Three hundred and thirty marines under Lieutenant Colonel Manilla C. Goodrell have gone there on board the United States cruiser New York, and two battalions of Twelfth Infantry will start immediately for the same destination.

The troops in Samar anticipate hard fighting. Brigadier General Jacob H. Smith, who is in command, has visited most of the ports and instructed the commanders that the insurrection must be hammered out, and General Lukban, the insurgent leader, captured. Already the movement of troops has begun.

General LaCuna, who surrendered last May, has complained to General Chaffee that the terms upon which he and his force surrendered have not been respected by the Americans. He exhibits a document signed by himself and General Frederick Funston, in which he and his force are granted immunity in respect of all acts committed contrary to the laws of war. Since this document was executed several of LaCuna's officers and men have been tried, condemned and sentenced to death for killing American prisoners. General Funston says that when it was signed he gave LaCuna orally to understand that the killing of American prisoners was excepted. LaCuna admits that something was said on the subject, but says no thorough understanding was reached, and he considers the written agreement binding.

Owing to vigilance of Lieut. T. M. Jaines, Jr., of the Ninth United States infantry, another slaughter of American troops by insurgents has been averted. He discovered a prisoner re-entering a cell at Caribga, island of Samar, where several were confined, through a hole that had been let in the wall. An investigation showed a plan to fill the jail with bolomen and to call the guard, which would be necessary to get the door open, and then to attack the garrison. It also developed that the instigators were a priest and the president, both of whom have been arrested, together with several other prominent persons. Other attempts have been discovered, but fortunately frustrated, at Panbujan and other points in Samar. Several persons have been arrested in connection with these.

Previous to her departure she had the body of her husband disinterred and will take it to Washington for burial in the national cemetery. Admiral Bowles' Report.

Washington, Oct. 21.—The annual report of Admiral Bowles, chief of the bureau of construction and repair, calls attention to the slow progress in the construction of the ships now building for the navy made during the past year, owing to strikes and delays in the delivery of armor and steel forgings. He points out that under the present system for the purchase of armor the responsibility for delays emanating from this source rests with the government and renders it liable to suits for damages by the ship constructors. The construction bureau, he says, has made considerable progress toward the standardizing of ship fittings, which he says will reduce the original cost of ships to the navy and decrease expense of maintenance.

Atlanta, Oct. 21.—Judge W. T. Newman of the United States district court has handed down an opinion of interest to the mercantile community and the legal profession at large. The supreme court of the United States has decided, under a section of the bankruptcy law, that a payment received by a creditor of a bankrupt within four months preceding the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, must be surrendered before the creditor shall be allowed to prove his claim in bankruptcy, whether the payment was received knowingly or not.

THE LABOR WORLD.

The Slavery of Today.

Slavery just as horrible as existed before the war exists in this so-called land of the free today, in West Virginia. The poor miners are forced to work ten hours a day in the bowels of the earth for a mere pittance. I have seen them when they come to the surface after their day's work was done. Many of the poor fellows would drop from exhaustion as they stepped out. Forced to drudge all day, with two or three biscuits to keep up their strength, they are in worse bondage than were the colored men. They must live in the capitalist's dog kennels owned by the company; they must buy all their necessities of life from the company store and contribute to the support of a company doctor. Every cent they earn finds its way back into the hands of the trust.—Mother Jones.

A ticket collector on a Spottish railway got leave to go and get married, and was given a pass over the line. On the way back he showed to the new collector his marriage ticket by mistake for his pass. He studied it carefully, and then said: "Eh, mon, you've got a ticket for a long, wearisome journey, but on the Caledonian railway."—Irish-American.

The campaign for union-made goods in Chicago is being carried on along new and progressive lines and the results shown are remarkable. While the union label as a factor in the sale of goods has always been a valuable asset to manufacturers who are progressive and deal honestly with their customers, few trades have been so benefited by advertising as the cigar-makers, hatters and shoemakers. A trade-unionist purchasing other than blue-label cigars or union-made shoes and hats is now publicly scoffed and held up to ridicule and contumely by his fellow-workers.

The union-labor idea has invaded even the most unexpected places. Domestic help, laundry-workers, delivery drivers and traveling salesmen are the latest to organize, while egg inspectors and elevator operators are staid old organizations. The traveling salesmen are more closely affiliated with the printing trades than any other organizations lately to charter under the Federation of Labor. The salesmen handle union-made goods exclusively, and are mainly in the book and printing supply line. The president, D. A. Kistler, is an enthusiastic worker and is traveling representative for the first subscription book house to adopt the union label.

FRIGHTFUL

RUNAWAY WHICH HAD A LUCKY ENDING.

One of Mr. Norpell's Horses Fell, and That Frightened Its Mate—No-body Hurt.

Mr. Carl Norpell, the attorney, had a thrilling experience about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon with a runaway team. Fortunately nobody was hurt.

Mr. Norpell had hitched his spirited team to the two seated carriage and had started to drive with his family to his country place "Willowwood down the Lovers' Lane road. While going down a slight incline one of the horses stumbled and fell and the carriage ran against it, the horse was thrown so that all four feet were in the air. Realizing that the "off horse would run, Mr. Norpell jumped from the carriage believing that he could reach the animal's head before the other horse, which was then lying on its back, could get up by his missed his calculations, for the frightened animal literally dragged its mate to its feet and before Mr. Norpell had fairly reached the ground, the team with half the harness broken, was dashing up the narrow, crooked road carrying, as Mr. Norpell had reason to fear, his entire family to serious injury or possibly death. In speaking of his experience afterward, Mr. Norpell's son, Max, said that the wheels of the flying carriage part of the time were not more than six inches from the creek embankment and the occupants had several narrow escapes from being thrown down the bank into the creek.

As the team dashed up the road Mr. Norpell ran after it, but was relieved within a few minutes to see his daughter, Louise, coming toward him bringing word that the horses had finally broken loose from the carriage and that nobody was hurt. The baby in the arms of the nurse girl, had not even been awakened.

Mrs. Norpell in her excitement, had jumped from the carriage just as it had started, and was uninjured. The tongue of the carriage was broken to pieces and one spoke of a front wheel was broken, while one of the horses received some ugly cuts, by coming in contact with the carriage.

Kenilworth—Yes, the drama has degenerated most sadly. Kantuck—Indeed it has, huh! I went to a theater the other evening, and they passed around water between the acts!—New York Journal.

Spotted.

"Weary," said Mr. Waggles' side partner as they reposed on a slant of tender turf beside the quiet highway, "do you know what Jigsby's been a-sayin' about you?"

"Nop," said the great man as he looked longingly into the void of his hat-corn. "Wot he been sayin'?"

"He says," replied the side partner, "that you was once so hard up that you actually sawed a awful o' wood for a widder woman."

"It's easy enuff to see wot that story means," said the great wanderer gloomily.

"Wot does it mean, Weary?"

"It means blackmail; that's wot it means."

And then, the subject being a delicate one, it was permanently dropped. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Room For Doubt.

"Yes, by Jove, I really believe they are beginning to think I'm going to be a future member of their family."

"What's put that idea into your head?"

"Well, last night while I was waiting for Miss Rockleigh to get through priming her mother came into the parlor and asked me if I could trace my ancestry back to any barons or earls or dukes or William the Conqueror."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Another Rebut.

"Colonel," the beautiful grass widow asked, "have you ever had any experience with ghosts?"

"Yes," the rough and ready old warrior answered. "When my wife was alive, she was continually parading her first husband before me. That's why I'm looking for an inexperienced lady now."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Then the Subject Was Dropped. "Am I the only girl you ever loved?" she asked doubtfully.

"Am I the only man you ever encouraged?" he inquired.

They looked long and soulfully into each other's eyes, and out of this gaze there seemed to come a tacit understanding that it would be just as well to drop the subject.

Considered as Fortunate. "That nobleman she married turned out to be bogus."

"By George! That's lucky for her, isn't it?"

"That depends on whether you consider him as a husband or merely as a purchase."—Chicago Post.

THE RETURN ... OF BUDDHA

I had an idol from Ceylon. They said it was Buddha. One day a fellow came along who looked sick—in fact, he hadn't a bit of flesh on his bones.

"I'm far from well," says he nervously. "But you needn't be frightened of infection or anything like that. Fact is, I've been poisoned—poisoned near a place I've got in west Ceylon, near Palatupane. It began five years ago last month," he went on in a dreary sort of way, "and I suppose I was in some degree to blame myself."

"You see, there was so little for a man to do about my district, and not a soul to speak to except natives, and one naturally got wild for a bit of excitement. Still, I think I must have had some drink in me at the time or I shouldn't have gone messing round a temple. I suppose the priests looked further ahead and thought they could get more out of me dead than alive. So they poisoned me."

"But, pardon me, wasn't it rather a mad thing of you to eat anything in such a place?"

"I neither ate nor drank. I was not so insane as that."

"One of them gave me a push with a cane he had in his hand, and I felt a tingle prick and the thing was done."

"It was not till a week after that I began to get seedy. But the worst of it was no one could make out exactly what was the matter with me—neither native quack nor white doctor—and for three whole years I hadn't a ghost of a notion myself either. I just wasted down."

"It was just three years after that affair in the temple that I got the first inkling of what was the matter with me, and then only indirectly from whisperings among the coolies. But a man in as bad a fix as I was will clutch at any hope, and so I got a palanquin rigged and had myself carried away through the woods to the gloomy little temple."

"The priests were fulsomely civil. They remembered my honored visit, time back; were prostrated with the honor I did them in apologizing, but dantly denied that they had any hand in doing evil to my celestial person."

"So I went wearily back again and in a week had a mysterious communication handed me—how, I know not—couched in very grammatical English."

"It stated simply that for my insult to them the gods, through their servant priests, had chosen to punish me. Already I had tasted of their power in that I had wasted from a heavy, strong man to a puny skeleton. I could save myself by delivering my own ransom on the threshold of the temple."

"Years back, so I read, a wandering Irishman had visited the shrine and had pilfered a bronze statue of Buddha possessed of infinite sanctity. He had departed, leaving small trace, and had taken with him the Buddha to the place whence he had come."

"The letter went on to give a minute description of the lost treasure and its probable whereabouts and wound up by assuring me that it, and it alone, contained the sole antidote which would cure me. How the healing drug was to be administered the writer forbore to tell, but that would be shown when the image was replaced in its shrine."

"Convinced as this letter was, I believe I should have disregarded the advice but for one thing. Accompanying it were notes for ten thousand rupees. A Cingalese native may lie, but he will never outlay his money without seeing clearly a very good return for it."

"And so I set out, with old death always spurring me to hurry in the search, and after three weary months I have found the Buddha in your house. It remains to see if you will surrender it to me."

"That was the fellow's yarn. Of course I took him to be mad at first, but as he went on, in spite of myself I could not help believing in it. I took him into the hall and he spotted the beastly green thing on its perch in a minute."

"That's my fate," says he, "and, look you, inside it there ought to be a small packet of purple powder done up in a scrap of snakeskin. May I look?"

"Go ahead," says I, and, reaching up his bony hands with a bit of a shudder, he presses a knob, and I'm blessed if the little idol's stomach didn't swing out on a hinge, showing a tiny cupboard which held the speckled snakeskin and the stuff, just as he said."

"And what are you asking for this piece of bronze? You know what it's worth to me, but I've not much money left. I ask you, as a man, not to be too hard with the price!"

"Oh, confound you!" says I, a bit confusedly. "I may be fond of driving a stiff bargain over horsehair sometimes, but I'm not altogether a brute. Take the ugly thing with you and welcome."

Well, the fellow went away, and for a long time I heard no more of him, and Mabel said I'd been swindled by a clever rogue, and I began to think as much myself, although I didn't say so. And then, by Jove, a long letter full of thanks came to say that he'd delivered up his prize, and the priests stood to their promise and he was getting well rapidly."

And after that we didn't hear anything more till about a couple of months ago, when some lawyer out there wrote to say that the poor fellow had gone dead from snake bite and left me all his property."

A Gain of Time. "I once invented a flying machine," said the thoughtful man.

"Did you have any better luck than other inventors in that field?"

"Yes; it didn't take me as long to find out that it wouldn't fly."—Washington Star.

Rheumatic Warped Limbs.

To suffer the most excruciating pains, to lose the use of limbs, and to have the joints swollen and disfigured is the lot of the victim of rheumatism.

Uric acid in the blood is the cause of rheumatism. If the kidneys are active, they remove the uric acid. That is their special work. If, on the other hand, the kidneys are deranged, there is sure to be uric acid in the blood and rheumatic pain through the body.

No amount of liniment will ever cure rheumatism. It sometimes relieves, but to cure can only be brought about by setting the kidneys right.

The most effective kidney remedy known to man is Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They cure rheumatism permanently by making the kidneys active in their work of removing the uric acid from the blood.

Mr. William J. Coad, No. 65 Brunson Street, Oswego, N. Y., writes: "I am very glad to praise Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and tell what they have done for me. I suffered for many years with severe constipation, rheumatism and kidney trouble, and could get no relief until I tried Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. LIONIZED

Dumont, the Air Ship Inventor, Receiving Marked Attention from Women—Explains Plans.

Paris, Oct. 21.—An amusing feature of the popularity of M. Santos-Dumont the Brazilian aeronaut, is the overwhelming feminine correspondence it brings him daily. From America, Europe and Asia, ladies send scented declarations and photos. One styles him the "fearless knight of the etherial kingdom." Many offer marriage and promise sympathetic companionship and loving encouragement. Many more tender financial support upon condition of matrimony. Others would be satisfied if permitted to make a balloon ascension in his company. But the airship built for two is unknown.

On Saturday Harold Fowler McCormick of Chicago, with his charming wife, the daughter of John D. Rockefeller, was among the visitors at Aero park, being introduced by Duchess O. H. the daughter of Dom Pedro, the last emperor of Brazil. Mr. McCormick asked when the aeronaut was likely to soar over Brooklyn bridge.

"Possibly next spring," said M. Santos-Dumont.

"He will first attempt to beat the steam record between Nice and Corsica several times in succession. Then he will try to go back and forth between France and Algeria. When Mr. McCormick asked him whether he considered crossing the Atlantic an early possibility M. Santos-Dumont replied without hesitation: "The most difficult point always is the beginning. Look at steam and electrical locomotion. Look at the automobile. Each went through an apparently hopeless stage. I am amazed my self when I consider how profoundly I have altered my original theoretical conception of aerial navigation since practice has showed me daily necessary modifications. I am certain we have passed the ungrateful period now. Crossing the Atlantic may be accomplished soon. Besides, as W. K. Vanderbilt was telling me the other day, if I have done nothing better I have certainly directed universal attention to the most fascinating field of invention left open."

WILL PAY PRIZE MONEY.

Paris, Oct. 21.—M. Deutsch, who offered 100,000 francs for the invention of a dirigible balloon, this morning sent his secretary to M. Santos-Dumont, the Franco-Brazilian aeronaut, to say that in his opinion M. Santos had won the prize fairly. M. Deutsch also stated that he was ready to pay the money to the aeronaut and thought the committee of the Aero club would come around to his opinion in the matter.

HEARING

OF MRS. APPELATE'S CASE IN PROGRESS.

Trial is Held Before the Mayor in the City Council Chamber—A Big Crowd in Attendance.

The preliminary trial of Mrs. Thomas Applegate who is charged with shooting Mrs. Phillip Miller with intent to kill was held before Mayor Aldrich at one o'clock this afternoon.

The council chamber, where the preliminary hearing was held, was filled with spectators, mostly neighbors and friends of both women. There have been 27 witnesses subpoenaed, fifteen for the plaintiff, and twelve for the defendant.

Mrs. Miller was present at the court, looking pale and wan, with her arm in a sling. She sat with her husband, and her attorney, B. G. Smythe, having been brought from home in a cab.

The defendant sat on the other side of the room, her interests being looked after by Attorneys Gil C. Daugherty and Mr. Reid.

Drs. Sobel and Barnes were called and testified as to the wound, saying the bullet had struck the bone in the left arm, and that serious complications might result.

Mrs. Miller, the wounded woman, testified to about the same facts as heretofore published in this paper. Her husband was also on the stand. Mrs. Frank Snider, Mrs. George Saxe, a sister of Mrs. Miller, and Mrs. Maude Mossagrove were also examined. The case will again be taken up Tuesday.

POWERS

Look the Stand in His Own Defense, Progress Made in the Trial at Georgetown.

Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 21.—When the trial of Powers opened this morning, the witnesses for the defense were called to be sworn. Among those who appeared was Holland Whittaker, who was indicted and is under $10,000 bond, as one of the principals in the killing of Goebel. He has never yet appeared on the stand, and his story will be interesting, as it will be new. Caleb Powers again took the stand this morning and his examination was continued. He denied ever having known John L. Bosley, postmaster at Paris, who is alleged to have told Sherman Stiver of a plan to kill the Democrats in the senate during the contest, and that five men were to begin shooting at Goebel.

Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 21.—The commonwealth closed its testimony in the Powers case, and the defendant, Caleb Powers, was called to the stand. He admitted all meetings and conversations with Golden, Fulton and others, except such parts of the conversation as tended to implicate him in the conspiracy. He denied the important part of Banker John Black's testimony as to Powers designating the mountain army as a "mob," intended to intimidate the legislature, but admitted every other detail of his talk with Black. Powers denied that he and his brother, John L. Powers, had ever given Henry Youtsey a key to the secretary of state's office. Youtsey asked him for a key, but he told him he did not want him in his office. When he found Youtsey in his office, pointing a gun out the front window, he told him he must get out, and that there must be no shooting from that office. Powers said he fled from Frankfort because he felt satisfied that he could not get a fair trial.

Care of Seed Corn.

I cut the corn from the best part of my field and when dry husk it, select the best ears for seed, says a correspondent of New England Farmer. I do not necessarily choose the largest. I prefer a deep grained ear, moderately rough. I tie two ears together with a small portion of the husk or with binding twine and hang them over a wire suspended from the rafters of a dry building. Seed corn selected at this time must not be thrown into a pile to be hung up later, but must be stripped and hung up at once. Mold of any kind injures the germinating powers of seed. If the corn is alive, almost any seed corn will grow, providing the earth is warm and moist and all conditions favorable. In adverse seasons, however, good strong seed is absolutely necessary for a satisfactory stand.

During the preserving season there is no such word as can't. Can is the word.

MATTER AND FORCE.

ENERGY CANNOT BE CREATED NOR CAN IT BE DESTROYED.

If Puffy Man Could Accomplish Either of These Impossible Things, He Could Cause the Wreck of Matter and the Crash of Worlds.

If you could imagine an earthworm trying to run the Niagara Electric Lighting and Power Transmission works, you would have some faint idea of the capacity of the greatest human genius that ever lived to run the visible universe. That is probably why the wisest of us is not permitted to understand the final secret of nature.

Here is a good example. Take a rifle into a place sufficiently far from the habitation of men; put the butt on the ground and support it so that the barrel points straight up. Pull the trigger. The bullet will have the muzzle with a velocity of say, 3,000 feet a second. It will rise to an enormous height, come to a standstill for an infinitesimal fraction of a second and begin to fall back again. It will strike the earth with very nearly but not quite the same velocity as it left the muzzle of the gun. It would be exactly the same but for the resistance of the air.

What has happened is this: The explosion of the powder has changed a solid into a gas, and the expansive energy of this has driven the bullet upward. In other words, it has for the time overcome that mysterious force by which the earth draws everything toward its own center.

But when the energy of the exploded powder is exactly balanced by the pull of gravitation the bullet falls back. In the first second after its turn it falls 16 feet, in the next 32, in the next 64, in the next 128, and so on till it returns with ever increasing velocity whence it started.

Nothing has been lost, nothing gained. The gases set free by the explosion of the powder weigh exactly as much as the solid. Some of the energy has been used as heat, some in propelling the bullet. Gravitation, overcome for awhile, has reassessed itself. The sum of matter and force in the universe is absolutely unchanged.

This is as true of the quickened beat of a girl's heart when she meets her lover as it is of the march of the planets and suns through the fields of space. Every atom of matter, every unit of force, throughout the universe is constant, external and exactly balanced, and the whole strength and genius of humanity could not increase or diminish them by the slightest fraction.

Now, let us imagine what would happen if man could make that bullet strike the earth with greater or less force than it left the muzzle of the gun. He would either have increased or decreased the total of universal energy, and in either case he would have thrown first the solar system and then the whole universe out of gear.

The earth and all the other planets would begin to revolve in different orbits. The sun, with its family of worlds, would alter its path round the unknown center about which it revolves. Then world would be hurled against world and sun against sun, and stars and planets would be reduced to the flaming gases from which they cooled into solids and liquids before time began to be.

Just the same catastrophe would happen if man could either create or entirely destroy a grain of sand on the seashore. The balance of the universe, in which swing stars and planets, whose weight is inexpressible in human figures (this tiny world of ours weighs 6,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons), is infinitely more delicate than that which the chemist has to keep in an airtight case and at an even temperature lest a breath of air should throw it out of gear.

Thus the destruction or creation of a grain of sand would change the orbit of the earth round the sun. In the one case it would be drawn closer and closer to the sun, perhaps after thousands of revolutions to be swallowed up in fiery ruin. In the other case it would gradually leave the sun and year by year wander farther away into regions of space where human life would be impossible.

The result of the dislocation of such a stupendous system, which has worked with unflinching exactitude for countless ages, is, of course, utterly beyond the scope of human imagination, and yet such a seeming trifle as the creation or destruction of a single grain of sand might, and probably would, plunge it into utter chaos and ruin.—Pearson's.

His Ability.

"And how is my old school friend Binson getting on," said the man who had returned to his native city after a long absence.

"Oh, he's doing first rate."

"But he was such a bright boy we always expected he would display especial ability."

"Well, I don't know that he hasn't displayed especial ability."

"I never hear him mentioned in connection with any of your elections."

"No; that's just the point. He has shown ability to go ahead quietly and build up a business. He doesn't have to run for office."—Washington Star.

BUCKEYE ROAD

LOST NO TIME WHEN DECISION WAS ANNOUNCED.

Put Big Force at Work on Union Street—Track is Now Down. Still Two Injunctions.

Promptly upon the announcement of the Circuit Court's decision Saturday removing the injunction against the Columbus, Buckeye Lake and Newark Traction company, which had restrained the company from building its tracks on Union street from the Old Fort to Pine street, word was sent to Manager Davis who sent a train to Hebron over the line that is now in operation, and a force of about 75 men was brought to the city. The gang was put to work and that afternoon track was laid on Union street before any further action was taken in the Courts.

The strip over which the contention occurred was about three blocks in length. The Circuit Court dismissed the Agricultural Society's petition and overruled a motion for a new trial. Time was allowed for the finding of facts and preparation of a bill of exceptions.

Now that the track is down it remains to be seen what, if any, further action is taken.

The Buckeye Lake people still have one obstacle in their way here and another in the village of Hebron. Here in Newark the B. & O. and the Pan Handle railroad companies have an injunction restraining the company from crossing their tracks on Pine street without consent. In Hebron there is some controversy with the Odd Fellows' lodge. In the city here tracks are now laid from the Old Fort as far east as the Auditorium, with the exception of the point where Pine street is crossed by the steam railway tracks.

On Sunday the company had a gang of about 100 men at work on Union street. The track had been put down Saturday afternoon very hurriedly. Sunday the ties were put under ground, and the street was graded.

The Buckeye Lake carried a large number of Newark people to Hebron and return Sunday.

WHY STEAMER SANK.

Detroit, Oct. 21.—The cause of the sinking of the steamer City of Cleveland was a large boulder on which she ran in the fog yesterday. The hole is amidships under the wheel shaft. The steamer will be raised and patched to-day. Just how bad the damage is will not be known till she gets to the dry docks.

GLASSBLOWERS!

Who Leave for Terre Haute Tendered a Farewell Reception by Newark Maennerchor.

This morning, Conrad Deutsch, William Strecker, Carl Meder, Carl Bloch, and William Gundlach, glass blowers, left for Terre Haute, Ind., to work at their trades.

On Saturday night the Newark Maennerchor tendered these members a farewell reception at Vogelmeier's hall. Speeches were made, interspersed with a number of selections, well rendered by the society.

Refreshments were served during the evening and all present spent a pleasant evening. Those present were Carl Meder, Conrad Deutsch, Jasper Ermer, Rudolph Brauer, Joseph Reichert, Julius Juch, Frank Verheyen, Anton Heck, Geo. Petzold, Franz Lienhart, George Deutsch, William C. Vogelmeier, Geo. Meyer, Charles Meyer, Robert Zergibel, Joe Miller, Richard Dold, Herman Bernhardt, Carl Bloch, Fred Glassmeier, Charles Bingman, Marshal Fred Vogelmeier, Carl Gundlach, William Strecker, Fritz Gundlach, Geo. Hentze, Wm. Hamman, Wm. Gundlach, Wm. Steinkemper, Henry Loewendick, G. Wollinsky, John Eaton, Philip Butler, Charles Butler, William Butler.

In the departure of these five members, the Newark Maennerchor loses energetic men who have the interests of the society at heart, and they were also some of the society's best singers.

ALIX

Greatest Trotting Mare the World Has Ever Seen, Will Score No More.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 21.—Alix, the great daughter of Patronage and Atalanta, by Attorney, who held the world's record at 2:03 3/4 for six years, was buried Sunday with some ceremony by the stable attendants on the farm of her owner, former Mayor Styles, of this city. Alix suffered a stroke of paralysis about a month ago, and to spare her the tortures of a lingering death she was humanely killed by the administration of chloroform. Alix was 13 years old. At Galesburg, Ill., September 19, 1894, driven a mile against time by Andy McDowell, she established the world's trotting record for stallion, mare or gelding, at 2:03 3/4, being a quarter second faster than the record of Nancy Hanks, which had stood since September 28, 1892. Alix record was not lowered until The Abbot, on September 25, 1900, driven by Ed. Geors, at Terre Haute, Ind., lowered it to 2:03 1/4, and she stood until Crescens at the Columbus meeting the past summer, put it down to 2:02 3/4. Thus Alix died with the distinction of having trotted a mile faster than any other mare that ever lived. A costly monument will be erected at her grave.

Handkerchief Bazar will be given Thursday, October 24, at the residence of Mrs. Fred Sites. Benefit of City Hospital. 10-13-7t

WATCH DOGS.

Ever on the Alert—Alive to Every Form of Oppression—Kept on Edge—Burdened Beyond Endurance—Nerves Give Out.

The machinery of a mill that grinds day and night has to shut down now and then for repairs. It is the same way with your nerves. Overwork, close application, our ways of living, bring about nerve waste that sets up symptoms of various kinds. It may be failing strength—weakness, languor, headache, sleeplessness, etc. Whatever it is nerve force is lacking and the means of restoring rests with Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. A great many people in Newark vouch for this. Among them is Mrs. L. McFarland, of No. 40 1/2 South Second st., Newark, Ohio, who says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are a fine nerve tonic. They make ones nerves strong and steady, their sleep natural and their strength good where one is weak, nervous and sleepless. The Nerve Pills are just the thing and I shall keep Mr. Bricker of the City Drug Store in mind should I need more."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 c. a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package. 2454

WM. MORRISON

Who Died in Columbus Brought to Newark for Burial Tuesday—Funeral Services.

The remains of the late William Morrison, who died at his home in Columbus, arrived at Newark on B. & O. No. 50 at 7 o'clock on Sunday and were taken to the home of his father-in-law, Mr. Joseph Jones, on West Locust street. The funeral will take place from the home on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, under the auspices of Newark Lodge, No. 13, Knights of Pythias, and Newark Lodge of Odd Fellows, No. 623, and the remains will be interred in Cedar Hill cemetery. The services at the house will be conducted by the Rev. Frank Granstaff.

Mr. Morrison was born near Roseville, Muskingum county, in 1861. He had been a resident of Newark about twenty years and was a man who was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He had been a member of Newark Lodge of Knights of Pythias since 1885, and had also been a member of Newark Lodge of Odd Fellows since March 19, 1888. In both lodges he was a faithful and zealous worker. For the last six years he had been in charge of the Baltimore and Ohio freight house in Columbus. Owing to ill health he went to New Mexico, where he had been for nine months prior to his death. He also spent about eight months in Denver, Col. He returned to Columbus last April, and since that time gradually declined in health, until about three weeks ago, when his condition became such as to force him to take to his bed. He never rallied, but rapidly wasted away until last Saturday, when, surrounded by his friends, he breathed his last. He leaves three brothers, who reside in Cincinnati, Joseph, Dunbar and Arch Morrison, and a sister, Mrs. Mary E. Webb of this city.

Only $1 for the round trip from Granville to the Democratic opening at Bucyrus next Wednesday. Don't fail to go.

WING'S HEART

FOUR TIMES AS LARGE AS AN ORDINARY HEART.

Steeple Climber Who Had Many Newark Friends, "Called the Turn" On His Death.

The funeral of George Wing, the "human spider," who died in Wheeling, W. Va., Friday from injuries sustained by a falling signboard, was largely attended at Zanesville. All his life Wing had been a subject for acute medical examination and observation and frequently been on exhibition at Columbus medical colleges for the benefit of students and instructors. It was always believed that his heart was on the right side of his body and that his internal organs were all reversed as has already been stated in the Advocate. A postmortem examination was made of his remains by Drs. Harris, Hanna and Matthews, and unusual disclosures were made.

The doctors found that Wing's heart was at least five times as large as the normal heart of a person, or in other words, that Wing's heart was larger than the heart of a full grown steer. The largeness of the heart had resulted in crowding the left lung out of place, the heart filling the left side and extending three inches on the right side of the center of the breast bone. It was this, therefore, that caused many to believe that Wing's heart was on the right side instead of on the left side of his body.

Wing and Senator Foraker were passengers on a B. & O. train last summer to Caldwell, and the Senator asked him minutely about his operations, having seen him at work at the summit of a high steeple in Cincinnati a few years ago.

During the conversation Wing remarked that as soon as he had saved enough money he intended to quit the work, inspiring a reply from Senator Foraker: "On the other hand, I expect to pick up the morning paper some time and read of your death." Wing took exception to the statement saying that he did not believe he would be killed in a fall as people generally presumed he would eventually die. "On the other hand," said Wing "I expect to be killed by falling off a stepladder, or in some other silly manner." He called the turn. He was struck by a falling board.

SIGNALED

The Engineer to Stop After Robbing and Beating the Brakeman, Perhaps Fatally.

Frankfort, Ind., Oct. 21.—As Freight Train No. 40 on the Clover Leaf was leaving Brakeman Starnes found three men on top of the cars. He ordered them off the train, whereupon they drew revolvers and compelled him to give over his money, $50, a gold watch and a diamond ring. They then beat him until he was unconscious. The men next took the brakeman's lantern and signaled the engineer to stop. As the train slowed down the robbers made their escape in the darkness. Starnes was found by the conductor lying on top of the car. He is seriously injured and was taken on to Delphos, where he resides.
